

Young Los Lunas, NM Artist to have Work Displayed at U.S. Capitol

Washington, DC - On Saturday, May 8th, Congressman Harry Teague recognized local student artists at the final judging of the annual Congressional Art Competition. This year, Teague's office received an unprecedented amount of entries from high schools across the second congressional district. Many of the contestants, local artists and community members were on hand for the announcement.

Teague named Jennifer Ober, of Los Lunas, as the winner of both the official and Online Favorite competition for her piece titled "Enchantment". Jennifer will receive a free trip to the unveiling of artwork at the US Capitol in Washington, DC and her artwork will be on display in the Capitol for the duration of the year. Additionally, as the winner of the Online Favorite competition, Ober will also receive a flag flown over the Capitol building in Washington, DC.

This year, Harry Teague held an online competition in addition to the traditional judging. Over 1600 people cast their vote for their favorite artwork from the year's Top 10 entries. To view the rest of the Top 10, please click here.
